

2016 Toronto Political Behaviour Workshop
School of Public Policy & Governance
University of Toronto

Friday, November 11

8.30am—9.00am Registration and coffee

9.00am—9.10am Welcome

9.10am—10.00am Paper 1 Christian Grose, University of Southern California, Pamela Lopez, American University, Sara Sadhwani, University of Southern California and Antoine Yoshinaka, Buffalo, “Social Lobbying”

10.00am—10.50am Paper 2 Mark Pickup, Simon Fraser University, Erik Kimbrough, Simon Fraser University and Eline de Rooij, Simon Fraser University, “Ideological Identity and Voting: Group Norms and Personal Interest”

10.50am—11.20am Break

11.20am—12.10pm Paper 3 Michelle Dion, McMaster University and Jordi Daz, University of Guelph, “Social desirability bias and question framing effects: Evidence from a combined list and framing experiment on same-sex marriage support in Argentina”

12.10pm—1.00pm Paper 5 Christopher Dawes, New York University and Woo Chang Kang, Yale University, “The Electoral Effect of Stop-and-Frisk”

1.00pm—2.30pm Lunch and poster session

2.30pm—3.20pm Paper 4 Daniel Smith, Harvard University, Yusaku Horiuchi, Dartmouth College and Teppei Yamamoto, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, “Identifying Voter Preferences for Politicians’ Personal Attributes: A Conjoint Experiment in Japan”

3.20pm—3.35pm Break

3.35pm—4.25pm Paper 6 Anjali Bohlken, University of British Columbia, “Targeting Ordinary Voters or Political Elites?: Why Pork is Distributed Along Partisan Lines”

Saturday, November 12

9.00am—9.15am Coffee

9.15am—10.05am Paper 7 Henning Finseraas, Institute for Social Research, Oslo, Jeremy Ferwerda, Dartmouth College and Johannes Bergh, Institute for Social Research, Oslo, “Access to Voting Rights and Immigrant Incorporation: Evidence from Norway”

10.05am—10.55am Paper 8 Aimee Bourassa, Brown University, “Sore Winners? Democratic Attitudes, Institutional Fragmentation, and Support for Executive Authority in Latin America”

10.55am—11.10am Break

11.10am—12.00pm Paper 9 Barry Burden, University of Wisconsin and Michael DeCrescenzo, University of Wisconsin, “Mobilization, Persuasion, and the Partisan Fallout of the Gender Gap in U.S. Voting”

12.00pm—1.15pm lunch

1.15pm—2.05pm Paper 10 Mark Buntaine, University of California, Santa Barbara, Sara Bush, Temple University, Ryan Jablonski, London School of Economics, Daniel Nielsen, Brigham Young University and Paula Pickering, College of William & Mary, “Repairing Information Underload: The Effects on Vote Choice of Information Provided by Mobile Phone on Politician Performance in Uganda”

2.05pm—2.55pm Paper 11 Mikael Persson, University of Gothenburg, Karl-Oskar Lindgren, Uppsala University and Sven Oskarsson, Uppsala University, “A Natural Experiment in the Swedish Educational System and the Effects on Voter Turnout”

2.55pm—3.10pm Break

3.10pm—4.00pm Paper 12 Costas Panagopoulos, Fordham University, “Risky Business: Does Corporate Political Spending Affect Consumer Behavior?”